About TellUs Cultures

Vision

TellUs dreams of a world where human beings can benefit from their diversity

Values

- Understanding others
- Co-creation
- Freedom of speech
- Open-mindedness
- Respect for diversity

Mission

To promote better understanding between cultures.

What We Offer

Access to a multicultural group: the meetings organized by the association bring together people from different regions of the world, social, professional, and other backgrounds.

A space to exchange points of view freely and without judgment: participants are encouraged to take in the point of view of others without judging them. This does not mean they necessarily accept their point of view, but it allows them to have a more informed opinion.

The development and application of relational skills: TellUs Cultures' actions allow people to practice functioning with a more open mind and better management of intercultural relations easing of human relations.

A stimulating reflection on interculturality and the diversity of cultures: TellUs Cultures' actions invite individuals to become aware of their cultural orientations and seek explanations to understand and enrich themselves through their differences.

What We Do

Discussion Groups (since 2017)

spaces for dialogue that allow beneficiaries to talk about intercultural situations and meet people who may have different points of view and life experiences.

Workshops (since 2017)

Structured and interactive sessions on a chosen theme. This is an opportunity to publicize the intercultural experiences of the TellUs Cultures collection and approach through tailor-made actions.

Interviews (since 2017)

Individual meetings that allow us to talk about intercultural situations. This is an opportunity for the interviewee to be supported in writing their own intercultural experiences.

Conferences (since 2018)

Interactive presentations geared for a large audience. These awareness-raising actions present a compilation of intercultural experiences, accompanied by concrete examples, selected according to the context of the beneficiaries.

Training courses (since 2018)

Sessions for learning and experiencing the TellUs approach. Throughout the course, a trainer supports the beneficiaries so that they become aware of their cultural orientations and practice facilitating an intercultural discussion.

Exhibitions (since 2018)

Physical displays of intercultural experiences in a specific location (market, consulate, forum, association, university, etc.). During this event, a facilitator engages in intercultural exchanges with the concerned audience.

What We Need

We need more people to carry out our actions.

We want to maintain the high quality of our collection of intercultural experiences.

Testimonial

“ I loved having the opportunity to think about the different types of cultural differences that can present themselves at an international school like the Lycée Molière. The specific examples of moments of initial misunderstanding and subsequent growth in understanding were really informative and helpful. I also enjoyed the chance to meet other parents at the school. A wonderful workshop, highly recommended! ”
